Playing Tricks on the Bosses while Waiting for Them to Come to Terms—A Boss Baker's Expedient—The Journeymen's Offer.

Of about 4,000 striking journeymen bakers who assembled in Irving Hall on Monday and submitted to be locked in until their employers should come to their terms, about 400 remained yesterday. Nearly all of the others had gone to work. Fifty-six bosses agreed yesterday to the

The journeymen bakers passed a part of the day in skyiarking in the hall, dancing and singing, and keeping their spirits at the top notch with the amber lager.

The Boss Bakers' Union Bureau met for the third day in Beethoven Hall. The secretary said that he thought none of the large bakers would surrender. Those employers who have surrendered, he said, are principally proprietors of small shops who have not the capital to hold out. He claimed that skilled journeymen are applying for work every day on the bosses' terms. The secretary added that he believed the price of bread would be raised to retail

In the afternoon about a hundred bakers struggled from Irving Hall into Beethoven Hall. On the way they put their bright silver badges into their pockets, and, in pursuance of an agreement in Irving Hall, pretended that they had deserted from the journeymen's union, and they applied for work. They gave names and places of residence which, they say, were fictitious. In the middle of the afternoon, when only half a dozen bakers were in Beethoven Hall, the hundred journeymen present arrested these others for work.

Among the bosses who stand firm is John H. Shufts of Brooklyn, who employs eighty bakers. The journeymen said yesterday that they are to distribute to-day at all of the principal ferries and on the highways in Brooklyn 10,000 circulars calling upon laboring men not to patronize Mr. Shulitz. If that does not have the desired effect, the proprietors of the grocery stores of which Mr. Shulitz is the sole agent are to themselves have recourse to the strikers.

One of the strikers said last evening that Mr. Fleischman sent a cable message to Vienna yesterday forenoon for forty or fifty skilled bakers, promising to defray all expenses of their coming. "But we learned of it," said the striker "and sent a cable message to Vienna informing the Vienna Bakers' Union of the struggle here, and asking that no men should come. We believe that none will start. We are bound to succeed. In Philadelphia, Chicago and New Orleans the union is as strong as it is here. Friday will see the last boss victory, because he must have bread for his Sunday customers."
